
"AWA was the jumpstart to my career, and my AWA sisters have continued to help me achieve my personal and professional goals over the last 20 years. It's great knowing I can turn to AWA members of all interests and ages when I need resources, advice or support!"

Dear Friend,

There are exciting things going on in AWA, and I hope you consider being a part of the excitement with me. Knowing that you are supporting an organization dedicated to serving women with an interest in agriculture should be enough for you to sign on the dotted line. But, in case you need some more convincing, read on...

- AWA has more than 70 student members, with 24 of these women living in our 15-year-old house. Your membership helps provide housing, scholarships and support to these future leaders in the agricultural industry.
- AWA hosts professional development events, such as the Women's Ag Leadership Summit and Real World Workshop, and provides other networking opportunities through AWA Day, social dinners and service projects.
- AWA has its own website - www.uwmadisonawa.org - as a means of communicating with alumni and friends.
- AWA has a Google Groups listserv, which allows members to send and receive messages about AWA happenings, job/internship opportunities, scholarships, industry events, etc.
- AWA distributes an electronic newsletter, the AWA E-Alert.

Won't you consider this opportunity to become a part of all of this? Help us live up to our mission of offering women personal and professional growth by fostering networking, developing life skills, building relationships, and advancing agriculture.

I'd love to share more with you about AWA! Feel free to contact me at 262-903-6727 or katzman@idcnet.com.
